TYPES OF EVALUATION REPORTS:

Educational Evaluation (document by document)

Document by document - This education evaluation report describes and lists the educational institution(s) attended and the education credential(s) earned in a foreign country and states their U.S. equivalence (e.g. Bachelor, Master, Doctorate, etc.) This type of evaluation is most common for use in employment and immigration matters and university admission when transfer credit is not expected.

Course by Course Evaluation

Course by course - This evaluation report includes the information provided in a document by document evaluation additionally with a description of courses, credit hours, grades and degrees, as well as overall academic performance in terms of the educational system in the U.S. This type of report is generally required for college admissions for determining transfer credits, as well as for professional licensing matters.

Professional Work Experience Evaluation

The work experience evaluation is provided for immigration purposes most commonly for those applying for H-1B visas. The report evaluates both an individual's professional work history (using the USCIS "three for-one-rule") and educational credentials in order to establish a Bachelor's degree equivalency.
